ABOUT THIS ISSUE

Volume 3, Issue 3 examines artificial intelligence and machine learning across finance, healthcare, computing infrastructure, marketing, logistics, productivity, privacy-preserving data collaboration, and drug discovery. The issue also addresses taxation in the gig economy, emotional regulation, social vulnerability, cloud pricing, and the institutional consequences of data-intensive decision systems. Together, these contributions foreground questions of accountability, privacy, fairness, security, and public value in the design and deployment of intelligent technologies. The issue record also includes a retraction notice, preserving transparency in the journal's publication history.

ABOUT THE JOURNAL

JKLST is a peer-reviewed, open-access journal publishing original research, reviews, case reports, short communications, and other scholarly contributions across knowledge, learning, science, and technology.
